PROM FORT PILLOW AND ISLAND

The storm of Tuesday night was very severe at Fort Pillow and Island 10. At the former place several trees were blown down within our lines, and a number of tents capsized. No lives were lost, however.

At Island 10, the Kanawha Valley was driven from her moorings on the Tennessee shore, toward the Island. She was capsized in the river, when her boilers rolled overboard, and her cabin parted from the hull. The officers and floating wreck, which floated down the river until within three or four miles of New Madrid. One of the crew swam ashore and notified the officers of the Grampus, who got up steam, rescued the whole party, and towed the cabin ashore. The crew lost their entire baggage The DeSoto was also blown ashere and lost her rudder, but she was enabled to render some assistance to the wrecked crew. The latter reached the city on the Scotland, which arrived last

With the aid of glasses it was seen that the smoke stacks of one of the enemy's gunboats, and also one of their transports, had been blown down during the gale.

The enemy continued to shell the Island at long range, and with considerable intervals between their fires. The bombardment continued without results.

It was known that the enemy continued to occupy their batteries on the Missouri shore. Their force was unknown, nor was anything ascertained of their movements on land.

ANDY JOHNSON'S SECRETARY. As our readers are aware, ANDY JOHNSON has been appointed by Mr. LINCOLN, his Military Governor of Tennessee. Mr. LINCOLN has also appointed Mr. E. H. EAST, of this State, secretary to Johnson.

Verily, war as well as politics, makes strange bed-fellows. JOHNSON and EAST were not always the best of friends. In the year 1855, EasT wrote to a former college room-mate, now | itself: in official position in this city, a letter, in which he said:

"I have this day laid my band on the Bible and sworn eternal enmity to ANDREW JOHN-$0N."

We read in ancient history that while HAN-NIBAL was a boy, his father HAMILCAR took him to the altar and made him swear, that when be was grown up he would make war with the Romans, and never make any peace with them. HANNIBAL took the oath and kept it.

It seems that Mr. East did not require to be called on by his father to swear " eternal enmity to Andrew Johnson." He laid his "hand on the Bible" and took the oath of his own accord. The parallel fails in another respect; for, whereas HANNIBAL observed his oath, East has swallowed his, and instead of being the enemy, he is now the bosom friend of

Can anything absolve a man from an oath voluntarily taken? JEPTHA did not think so when he sacrificed his only daughter.

ANTICIPATION.

There was a restless feeling in the city yesterday. Like puffs of wind before the crashing storm, came the recital of facts and incidents, movements and preparations occurring, in the vicinity of the Charleston railroad and the Tennessee river. "The hum of preparation" was not absent from our own city, and men's minds were turned with dissy apprehension, or with exulting anticipation, toward the battle which most persons believe to be approaching. Anxionsly every rumor was canvassed, events were calculated, positions discussed, and probabilities balanced. The belief that if a battle shall occur between the forces now marshaled in array against each other, it will have an important affair calls for, and doubtless will receive, a bearing on the mighty struggle now pending thorough investigation, and then it I could too fall upon those who deserve it. I could between the South and her boasting foe, was universal. The possible importance of coming events was contemplated with thrilling earnestness; their bearing upon the Confederacy, upon the fortunes of our own city, and the fate of friends and acquaintances, were gravely glanced at. The eve of anticipated battle is a solemn time, not only to those who expect to be engaged in the direful conflict, but to those who watch the bustle of preparation, and await with strained wision, and shuddering interest, the moment when the clanger of the loud-voiced trumpet, and the hoarse shoutings of excited thousands, announce that the supreme and decisive moment

While the natural feelings and reflections sug gested by the solemnity of approaching strife existed yesterday among our people, there was no intimation of fear or doubt. The universal thought expressed was-let but the wiley enemy leave his tortuous strategy, his uncertain advances, and his feigned retreats-let him but meet the Southern host breast to breast, and try the issue by the test of gallant deeds, brave to the call for aid, that the demand for surgeons hearts, and chivalrous feats of arms, then the for the present, is fully supplied. Dr. Nott says: day is ours. Let force of arm and resoluteness of soul, be the umpires of the contest, and our stag will bear away the laurels. Where the de- to have a good deal of additional assistance." cision lies in Southern will and Southern deeds. "there's no such word as fail." The result of the coming battle, as confidently anticipated by our citizens, is that described by Scott: Ob, who that shar'd them, ever shall forget

WROM PARIS ADDITIONAL.

We have a few additional particulars of the visit of the Federal troops at Paris, on Tuesday last. Two prominent citizens were arrested and carried away-Mr. John H. Van Dyke, formerly captain of the Paris minute men, and Col. R. T. Caldwell, a wealthy citizen who has been an active States rights advocate since the commencement of the present troubles. A large quantity of tobacco, estimated at 300,000 pounds, belonging to the latter gentleman, was seized by the hours of seven and eight o'clock. It was a complete surprise to soldies and citizens—a parof the town and camp, and opening fire upon them—the first intimation of their approach being given by Mr. Chas. Gibbs, a citison residing a mile or two from the town, past whose residence they were discovered marching a few moments before the attack was made. The first intimation of their presence to many, if not all, of the citizens and soldiers, was the roar of their guns. It is presumed they came out from Hickman. I have heard their numbers variously estimated at from two to four thousand, including a battery of light artillary. A panic seized upon all, and a general scamper ensued. Col. Jackson, Lieut-Col. H. Tilman, and other officers, in

FROM OUR EVENING EDITION OF YESTERDAY. FROM NORTH CAROLINA.-The North Caroina papers announce, with evident satisfaction. that General Theophilas H. Holmes has been assigned to the command of the Confederate forces n that State. The Fayetteville Observer says :

Christian. Nobody need fear that he will be drunk while a battle is being fought, or that he will so place his batteries and his troops as to give the enemy every advantage.

The citizens of Beaufort and Pitt counties, finding it impossible to remove their cotton and naval stores beyond the reach of the enemy, have committed them to the flames. We understand that P. A. Atkinson, of Pitt, recently with his own hands, set fire to and burned his whole crop of cotton, amounting to eight hundred the house of Heury Fitzhugh, Esq. and received its death-blow in the house of its friends, and he felt as much at case in looking at the war as an abolitionist as the andience would experience in looking at Rarey with Cruiser in his hands. The initiatory contest was com-menced in Kansas, and the South was re-enacting Missouri, and the North is Kansas.

In noticing the beginning of John Brown's career in Kansas, the lecturer said be deemed Brown's labors of more value to the country than any other living man except Wm. Lloyd Garrison. Every cannon Halleck has ever fired or McClellan ever heard, (for he has never fired one,) is a better anti-slavery lecturer than was ever heard in the capitol or in Fancuil Hall.

The first line of the President's recent mossage went straight to his heart. Its purport is: Border States, now is your time to sell. was not acquainted with rail splitting, but understood that a small thin wedge was first ap plied. This was a wedge—a small wedge, but still a wedge. He looked upon it as the first voice of the government-and he was here to persuade the people now to sustain the Presi-dent. People had begun to think that Presi-dent Lincoln thought of nothing but the State of Kentucky. The anti-slavery sentiment had at last conquered the Cabinet, and it was the duty of the North to stand up and assist the addistration in the new work

The President, in his message, had opened the loor of emancipation a foot, and he (Phillips) with a coach and six, and Wm. Lloyd Garrison for a driver, would drive right through. President goes on the thin ice as far as he dares; let us tell him the ice is thick and go on. The President could not be expected to do the work—he would say, "Go on, old man, I am with you." He (the lecturer) had labored for seventeen years to take nineteen States out of the Union; but if the Constitution would be in terpreted to mean justice, he was willing 48th sustain and guard it. There were two paths out of the war-one of peace, radical, permanent and prosperous-the other of seeming peace. With the latter path this difficulty, now an acute attack, would become chronic, and the nation would be incessantly racked with commotion thousand thunders follows, a tongue of flame leaps from the mouth of the mortar, and a olumn of smoke rolls up in a beautiful fleecy spirals, developing into rings of exquisite preortions. One can see the shell as it leaves the mortar flying through the air, apparently no arger than a marble.

The next you see of the shell, a beautiful cloud of smoke bursts into sight, caused by the explo-sion. Imagine ten of these monsters thundering at once, the air filled with smoke clouds, the gun boats belching out destruction and completel hidden from sight in whirls of smoke, the shell screaming through the air with an unearthly sound, and the distant guns of the enemy send Our readers know Gen. From the Potomac.

The Fredericksburg Herald learns that on Thursday night, filteen thousand of the enemy were a mile and a half this side of Warrenton Junetion, on the Alexandria and Orange railroad. Gen. Stuart's cavalry captured ten of the enemy, who reported that fifty thousand men were to advance upon Fredericksburg from Catlett's Station—bad authority. The Fredericksburg Herald learns that on the nur lett's Station-bad authority.

The Recorder learns that the Yankees landed again near Boyd's Hole on Tuesday, and burnt ington down the river, probably to Newport dred tugs and transports heavily laden, have been seen to pass down.

Heavy firing was heard all day Thursday along the Potomac from Boyd's Hole, and seems to extend as far as Washington, and firing was also heard Thursday evening for about an hour in the direction of Warrenton -Richmond Whig.

A BRUSH IN CAROLINA.—The Savsunah News says a rumor was brought to the city by passengers on the Charleston railroad on Satur day last, stating that a party of South Carolin-ians had attacked a Federal picket on Friday last, on North Edisto Island, killing three, wounding others and capturing about twenty.

Since the above has been in type we learn from a passenger who arrived in this city last evening, that the brush alluded to is correct. The Carolinians surprised the Federals, who were in a house, and took the whole party, with their arms, together with three pieces of cannon. They also took a quantity of new Federal uniforms. Our informant says he saw the Federals too sick to be removed, and left him. All the captured Federals are Germans.

The prisoners say that they were told that the Carolinians would not fight, and all they had to do was to invade the State and take possession of the property of its citizens, and that it would be distributed among the Federal army. These poor, deluded fools have by this time learnt a different lesson.
